VAnetworking Presents Seminar on Network Like a Superstar

Business, Economy, Finances, Banking & Insurance

Press release from: VAnetworking

(openPR) - Wednesday, March 26, 2008 at 6:00 p.m. EST, Jennifer Gniadecki, of Non-Toxic Networking, will present "Network Like a Superstar!"

Jennifer wanted to share with others just how easy it is to find people to network with and connect with those people in a meaningful way that can result in more clients and more referrals. Non-Toxic Networking isn't about making an elevator pitch and talking to everyone you come into contact with. It's not about handing out as many business cards as possible. It is a real, step-by-step approach to entering a networking event, finding someone to talk to, knowing what to say, and forging a bond that will make the other person want to do business with you.

Ruth Martin, Maplewood VA, commented about a networking horror story on Gniadecki's nontoxicnetworking.com/ Website, trying to win a free digital copy of the book. Martin said, "Years ago, I attended a social gathering and really knew only a few faces. I thought I was approaching a lady I had met casually a few weeks prior. I had heard she was newly engaged and wanted to extend my congratulations and ask about her engagement story. Unfortunately, I congratulated the wrong woman - a woman who physically resembled the one I had met but who was just recently separated from her husband. I didn't think it could get any worse until we were seated and guess who was my seatmate?"

Where was Non-Toxic Networking when I needed it? I'm looking forward to the release so I'll never worry about making another blunder again.

Please join us at VAnetworking.com on Wednesday, March 26, 2008 at 6:00 p.m. (EST) so that you can be more effective at making real connections at networking events and not feel overwhelmed trying to talk to everyone.
